He walked into my life that day and swept me off my feet.
Not knowing that, that blessed night that things would end so sweet.
I brought a lot of baggage where most men would run away and as I think within my thoughts "will he run or will he stay?"
As time went by, we fell in love and we both said "I do!"
Through the years what this man did, most men would never do.
With open arms and all our kids and grand kids he would raise.
He did it all no matter what. I give him all the praise.
In the end I think he knew his time was getting short,
for conversations he would have with loved ones of our Lord.
So let me say I thank the Lord for sending me this man.
He fought a battle everyday that labeled him as grand!
Words and thoughts from the family.
