It's so hard to believe it has been a whole year. So much life to live without you. So many holidays, so many phone conversations. I miss you so much. We all do. We all always will. We all have always known that you were the heart and soul of this family. We were so right. Even though we are all happy that you are where you wanted to be things will never ever be the same here without you. You will always be missed every moment of every day of every year of the rest of our lives. We miss you always. We love you always. I love you so very much maw maw.
